

Press Release

For Immediate Release

July 08, 2005

GraySail Web site version 3 showcases enhanced service offering

GraySail has released version 3 of their Web site. The new site is backed by the feature-rich open source content management system, OpenCms (<http://www.opencms.org>). A refined marketing approach partnered with enhancements to GraySail's service offering prompted the re-design of the Web site. The site, located at <http://www.graysail.com>, features the new higher education service suite, Coaster, and drives home the impression that GraySail is the low-risk open source service provider for your Web & data technology needs.

Justin Shearer, Creative Director, and Geniese James, Creative Developer, are responsible for the new site's graphic appearance.

GraySail LLC is a Web and data services company based on Columbia, South Carolina. Specializing in the area of complex data problems, GraySail provides a variety of business/technical consulting and development services. Along with solutions related to data architecture and analysis GraySail also provides marketing media services such as graphic design, web design, logo development, and flash animation design.

For additional information, please contact Leslie Shearer, Marketing Director for GraySail LLC by phone or e-mail at 803.227.0787, or leslie@graysail.com.